Description: Panache Club of Invertis University organized SC ST Welfare Program on 7/April/2020. Scheduled Castes (SC) and Scheduled Tribes (ST) in India have historically faced social and economic disparities. To address these disparities, various welfare programs have been implemented by the government aimed at their upliftment. These programs encompass a wide array of initiatives spanning education, employment, healthcare, and overall socio-economic development. The success of these welfare programs depends on various factors, including good governance, effective implementation, increased awareness among beneficiaries, and continual monitoring and evaluation to ensure the programs meet their objectives.
