VALUE ADDED COURSE

ABOUT THE COURSE-

Globalization and advancement in digital technologies have brought about changes in the rapidly emerging and evolving cognitive field as well as the hands-on department. This has led to the increase in the importance of intellectual property rights (IPRs), which encourages fair use and pre-empts plagiarism. IPRs are artistic, creative ideas resulting from the human brain applying art and design and inventing something unique based on the community's pursuit to add property. These rights are assigned to creators for a specific period when the builder acquires them in their work. They include copyright, trademark, design, trade secrets and patents, which provide benefits to creative efforts by acknowledging them.
